Reparenting Check-in Worksheet

This exercise strengthens your ability to identify and feel your emotions, which grounds you in the present moment. Recognizing which part is activated and how it got triggered helps you care for them. Doing this exercise regularly acquaints you with the inner loving parent. After you read each question, close your eyes or let your eyes have a soft gaze. Allow your answers to arise from within.

۷۷	'hat physical sensations and emotions do you notice? Allow yourself to experience them.
a.	I feel (one-word emotions*): Some common emotions: angry, disappointed, frustrated, tired, sad, hurt, scared, confused, hopeless, embarrasse ashamed, touched, thankful, relieved, joyous, comfortable, eager, proud, serene, hopeful, content. Example: I fee anxious and scared.
b.	I notice (physical sensations):
	Check your breathing, face, throat, torso, hands, feet, etc. Example: Tightness in the stomach. Shallow and choppy breathing. Cold hands.
	*One-word emotions help us distinguish emotions from thought. Practice using "I feel" followed directly by the emotion word. When we use that, like, as if, pronouns or names/nouns after "I feel," we're often describing a thought For example, "I feel like a failure," and "I feel she doesn't like me."
W	ho (what part of you) needs your loving parent's attention?
	Inner Child
W	hat triggered this part? Notice your self-talk. Allow yourself to experience your emotions.
